PBH GARAGE SALE SET FOR MAY 17, 18, 19

By Babette and Art Markey (AKA Aunt Tique and Uncle Junque)

The Fire Department Auxiliary is starting to gear up for this year's version of the Annual Garage Sale. We need the community to gear up with us!

This sale is held in the Pine Brook Hills Community Center/Firehouse with all proceeds benefiting the volunteers of the Boulder Mountain Fire Authority. It is one of two major fund raising events run by the Auxiliary and has been extremely successful over the years, growing in size and dollars raised each year. But the Auxiliary can only succeed in this fundraiser with lots of help from the community.

We had such an incredibly successful sale last year that we wonder whether we can come close this year. In case you have forgotten, or are a newer resident, we raised $6,000 in the regular sale plus an additional $1,750 from the sale of a donated car. To have a shot at continuing our record of each sale bringing in more than the previous sale, we will really need to work hard this year!

Three things will be needed:

1. Lots of donations, both large and small.

The best way to help us bring in lots of money for BMFA is to donate some higher priced items like furniture and antiques. These will go in one of the truck bays. We also need lots of smaller items to totally fill the community room at the Donations accepted Sat. and Sun., May 4, 5, 11, and 12, 10 AM - 2 PM.

SALE Fri. and Sat, May 17 and 18, 9 AM -4 PM,
Sun., May 19, from noon -4 PM.

Firehouse. If anyone wants to donate a running, "registerable" car, please call us. Of course your donations are tax deductible - we will provide a receipt, you have to assign the value. Please remember that we can't take any broken or non-working items. We also cannot take such things as old paint, chemicals and other hazardous materials, mattresses, building materials, large appliances or generations old personal computers. Since we must be able to sell what we get, we reserve the right to decline any donations.

Are there items in your closet that just aren't YOU? Give them to the garage sale! Anne Singh and Nancy Tamura consider potential donations.

The Firehouse will be open to accept donations on Saturday and Sunday, May 4 and 5, and again May 11 and 12, from 10 AM until 2 PM each day. If you want to donate but cannot make these times, call us at 440-6132 and we will try to work something out.

2. Lots of volunteers.

If you have worked at recent garage sales, we will be calling you to enlist your help again this year. If you have not volunteered before but would like to help out, please call us at 440-6132. We need staff to accept donations, set up the rooms, price, move items out to the “sales floor” before opening, sell, and clean up. We are a fun group to work with (although Babette has been known to get a tad crabby the week before the sale, after the hours start to take their toll and before the final excitement and bustle of the sale itself. Just give her some chocolate; she doesn’t bite).

3. Lots of enthusiastic shoppers with wallets full of money.

The sale itself will take place on Friday and Saturday, May 17 and 18, from 9 AM until 4 PM each day and will wrap up on Sunday, May 19, from noon to 4 PM. No matter how much great stuff is donated, we cannot be successful if we don’t get shoppers coming out in droves. What one person can no longer use can become another person’s treasure. Come see what treasures you can find to buy and support our firefighters. We always have an amazing assortment of goodies.

WILDFLOWERS IN THE HILLS

By Jo Noble

“Spring is sprung,
The grass is riz
I wonder where the birdies is. . .”

Nowadays, I seem to have trouble remembering my own last name, but somehow I remember this little ditty from when I was young. And, it pushes into my memory every year when I’m outside and become aware of the smell of the earth warming and of the cacophony of birds singing as many of them make their way back to our area.

The magnificent rebirthing is again happening in Pine Brook. Before long you will see small shoots, and colors pushing their way toward the sun. A list of flowers that will be bursting forth this spring is on page 6. Not all are present in all places, and indeed, this is not an exhaustive list, but it is fun to see how many you can find. And, perhaps you will give a small “thank you” to the wondrous diversity that protects and enhances our neighborhood.

Using common names for flowers is a hazardous business. Latin is much better, but beyond my grasp. I have used the Guide to Colorado Wildflowers, Volumes 1 and 2 by G. K. Guennel as a reference. If you are looking for a flower book, these two are pretty good, although I have not found any book that has all the flowers.

Go outside, take a deep breath and enjoy another spring.

DRY WINTER - LOW SNOWPACK: RECIPE FOR WILDLAND FIRE?

By Jim Eyster

The snowpack is only 63% of normal and our winter has been mild. What does this mean in terms of wildland fire danger? For years Pine Brook Hills homeowners have practiced good wildland fire mitigation techniques by clearing slash and utilizing HOA chipping projects to dispose of debris. Starting last year, Boulder Mountain Fire Authority (BMFA) initiated a project to help homeowners create defensible space around their homes on a cost shared basis. Although as a community we continue to address wildland fire mitigation, our greatest fire danger may not be within the boundary of Pine Brook Hills itself. Our greatest danger may be from contiguous Open Space Land where there is public access. Evidence has indicated that the majority of wildland fires in Boulder County are caused by careless people using poor judgment.

The next HOA meeting on April 24 will address the problem of Wildland Fires in Pine Brook Hills. Our guests that night from BMFA, County Open Space, City Open Space and State Forestry will help us understand what might be in store for us this summer and what we can do to mitigate the danger. Additionally, Bob de Haas, Manager of Pine Brook Water District, will be available to discuss water concerns if we have a dry summer. Fire and water are the two greatest concerns we have as residents of Pine Brook Hills. This meeting will give us a chance to learn about the plans and opportunities to reduce fire danger in our area.

For those of you who missed the last HOA meeting in January, it was very heartwarming to learn how area residents volunteer their time to help others. Jo Noble, HOA Vice President, coordinated the meeting and talked about her commitment to FINCA. FINCA provides financial services to the world's poorest women so they can create their own jobs, raise household incomes and improve their standard of living. Andrea Mann works with young women who give up their babies for adoption. Richard Greene volunteers in the Restorative Justice System. Pam Creswell spoke of the rewards and challenges associated with helping victims of crimes (Victim's Advocacy). Pat Palmer helps abused horses become rehabilitated and placed with loving families. All of the speakers described their work and the personal satisfaction they gained from their involvement. I want to thank each of them personally for their involvement and for sharing their experiences.

Hopefully, the April 24 HOA meeting will be as rewarding as the January meeting. This next meeting is very important as we move into the fire danger season, so we hope to see you there. Why not even come at 6, bring a potluck dish and join a group of your neighbors during our social gathering before the meeting?

ON THE WATER FRONT

By Bob de Haas

On March 6, 2002, it finally snowed again. We were long overdue for some more moisture. The bigger problem is that we are way behind in the amount of snow pack in our water shed. The snow pack is only slightly more than half of normal for this time of year. Yes, March and April normally are the snowiest months of the year, but they will have to be extra heavy to make up for what we have not received so far. Only time will tell.

So what does this mean to you? The common telephone call we get this time of year is, "Will we have water restrictions this year?" It's still too early to know. If we had to answer now, the answer would be yes. However, we could end up with a wet spring and wetter than normal summer, which would mean no restrictions. If temperatures are more moderate than normal, that will have an impact on our supply; the lower the overall daily temperatures the less need for the District to impose restrictions. If we get occasional afternoon thunderstorms all through the late summer months, the less likely the District will be to impose restrictions. If, if, if,..... As you can see there are many variables that can influence our supply. The only thing we can promise you right now is that as the summer progresses we will keep you informed, so please remember to read all of our notices.

We have been busy constructing two new pump houses to replace two old pump houses that were over 30 years old. While these new pump houses will not increase our supply they will make the system more dependable.

The election for the Pine Brook Water District has been cancelled as we did not receive more nominations than we had positions. So J. Kirk Hendricks, Art Markey, Mel Beauprez, and Brian Hanson will continue to serve on the Board. Many thanks to them for their time and hard work.

THE HOA TREASURER'S REPORT

By Al Whitfield

Response to our solicitation of annual membership dues has been very good, with almost 70% participation to date. If this pace continues, we should exceed last year's 80% and, hopefully, may achieve our goal of having all homeowners as members. These annual dues are the major source of income supporting the Association's many activities.

Thanks to all who have already paid their dues. If you have yet to do so, please join your neighbors and send $50 (or more, many do!) to Al Whitfield, Treasurer, 137 Alpine Way, Boulder, CO, 80304.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT ARE THEY DOING?Pine Brook Scat, or The Straight Poop
(OOPS!) Scoop

by Anne Singh

Congratulations to Pine Brooker Harriet Edelstein, who is a winner of this year's Boulder Valley School District's "Impact on Learning" award. Although anyone associated with the school district (teachers, administrators, support staff, volunteers) can be nominated for the award, Harriet is the first social worker to win the $1500 award for her school plus a $500 personal use award. Her innovative work with the students in conflict resolution, anti-bullying tactics and development of social skills led teachers at Crestview Elementary and Centennial Middle Schools to suggest and support Harriet's nomination for the award.

Eleanor Patten and her son traveled to Morocco in December. They toured the major cities, including Fez and Marrakech, and found the people friendly, the food good though unusual, saw beautiful mosaics and were impressed by the ancientness of the place. They spent time in souks and found out where Timbuktu is, in Mali!

Karen Peperzak celebrated her 50th birthday in January, at a birthday bash at the Boulder Theatre, all arranged by her husband, Marc. She said she was in shock by it even though she knew about it. It was a wonderful extravaganza which included a delicious buffet dinner, a band with dancing, much talking and a video produced by Patrica Belanger.

Jo Noble spent three weeks in Mexico recently, two of them in a Spanish language school and one week dancing with Dance Universal. Soon she will leave Pine Brook for a year in Africa, traveling as ambassador for FINCA (Foundation for International Community Assistance) which provides small loans of working capital to the self-employed poor and particularly to women (94%). Good luck, Jo, and we will miss you.

Charlie and Debbie Springer and Tom and Cherilynn Cathey recently returned from a six week adventure in New Zealand. They combined sailing with traveling around in a camper van and also touring in a car while staying nights in interesting inns. In that way, Debbie said they experienced the flavor of life there and they had a wonderful trip.

Five hundred thousand, yes, half a million bikers attended the Daytona Beach Motorcycle Rally recently and Marc Peperzak was one of them! He said it was the ultimate social leveling experience and people-watching opportunity. Doctors mixed with "dirt bags" and everyone looked the same. Bikers spent the days parading up and down the streets, going to the many biker specialty shops, looking at the fancy showbikes and drinking motorcycle lattes even. You could go to motorcycle races at the Speedway. Nobody seemed to be under 50 years of age and it was mostly a male event, although there were some couples and motorcycle "babes", dressed in leather chaps and jackets only. As Marc said, it was a SCENE and he had a blast, driving around on his bike, blowing his air horn bought at one of the shops.

BIENNIAL HOUSE TOUR - CALL FOR CHAIRPERSON

The Pine Brook Hills Biennial House Tour is coming up this fall, on September 14th and 15th. It is major fundraiser for the HOA, which raised $5000 two years ago, and is a very popular event, enjoyed by everyone. Two years ago 60 people in PBH took part, serving as house captains for the 5 houses and as staff in every area of each house. What we need now is a chairperson to mastermind this very worthwhile and wonderful event. Those 60 volunteers will be glad to assist a noble volunteer. If you think you might like to do this, please call Jim Eyster at 303-786-7586.

DON'T LET GARBAGE BECOME BESTIAL BUFFET!

The HOA Board of Directors would like to remind everyone not to put garbage out until the morning of collection day. Garbage remaining outdoors overnight is almost inevitably discovered (and distributed) by wild animals. Please wait until morning. It's better for ALL the animals, human and otherwise. Thanks!

A WEB SITE FOR PINE BROOK HILLS HOMEOWNERS?

By Al Gerrish

We've been thinking of a web site for the Pine Brook Hills homeowners for some time now. It's an opportunity for better communication to and from Pine Brook Hills homeowners. What could it be used for, you ask? Well, here are some possibilities:

1. A ready reference source for Pine Brook information such as is currently found in the Pine Brook Hills Directory.
2. A location for Pine Brook news and events to augment the quarterly issues of the Pine Brook Press.
3. A "Newcomers" Directory to supplement the current hard copy directory issued every two years.
4. Links to other sites of interest to Pine Brook residents such as County sites on fire codes, road maintenance and land use regulations.

Do you have suggestions?

Would you use it?

And, most important, WOULD YOU BE INTERESTED IN WORKING ON IT?

We'd like to get your feedback on a Pine Brook Hills web site. Putting up a site and maintaining it will take some effort, but it would be worth it if the site meets a need. We're currently deciding whether there is enough interest and expected usage to justify the effort and costs. Please respond with your comments and ideas. We'd like to hear from you. Call Al Gerrish at 443-7361 or email AMGERRISH@ATT.NET.

A WORD FROM YOUR WILDLIFE OFFICER

By Patrica Belanger

Last year the HOA decided there was a need to address wildlife issues in Pine Brook Hills and I was asked to be our first Wildlife Officer. The purpose of this column is to provide information to our residents about wildlife issues, problems and solutions. Like many of you, I had encountered injured wildlife and had no idea whom to contact for help. Below is a brief list of organizations and individuals that you can call for assistance and information. The complete list is available at the Community Center.

For Injured Deer, Bears, Mountain Lions, Elk, Cougars:

Call the Division of Wildlife at 303-291-7227. The Division of Wildlife officer for our area is Tina Jungwirth and she can be reached at 303-291-7146.
www.wildlife.state.co.us

For injured fawns or general deer information call:

Laura Deghtald, 303-499-5526.

For injured birds (excluding birds of prey) and small mammals, rabbits, raccoons, squirrels, foxes, water fowl such as geese and ducks:

GREENWOOD WILDLIFE REHABILITATION SANCTUARY
Emergency Number for Injured Wildlife:
303-823-8455
General Information number: 303-545-5849
Website: greenwoodwildlife.org
(Injured raccoons: call Carl Cunningham at 303-442-4030)

If You Find an Injured Animal:

Greenwood suggests that you place the animal in a box with a lid or dog or cat carrier and place a cotton T-shirt or similar bedding in the box. It's best to leave the animal in a dark, warm, quiet place until one of the volunteers from the sanctuary calls you. Do not attempt to give the animal anything to eat or drink.

For injured hawks, owls, eagles, falcons:

BIRDS OF PREY FOUNDATION
Sigrid Ueblacker: 303-460-0674
For big game Raptors, other birds:
Scott Rashid: 970-577-1794 (Home), 970-586-5376 (Work)

For help with Small Mammals, Bats and Skunks:URBAN WILDLAND RESCUE

This is a non-profit wildlife rehabilitation facility that provides humane and economic solutions to nuisance wildlife problems.

Call Penny or Jack Murphy 303-340-4911

Website: www.urbanwildliferescue.org

For Reptiles or Amphibians:

Laura Mayfield: 303-455-1512 (Home),
720-371-7808 (work)

Lannie Hagan: 303-425-5318 (home), 303-492-0771 (Work)

ADDITIONAL CONTACTS:

Boulder Humane Society: 303-442-4030

Boulder Sheriff: 303-441-4444 (They will respond if a deer has been hit by a car and needs to be put down)

U.S. Fish and Wildlife: 303-236-7540

Rocky Mountain Animal Defense: 303-449-4422

They work to eliminate the human imposed suffering of animals in the Rocky Mountain area. RMAD furthers its objectives through public education, investigation and research, the legislative process, direct action and appeals to reason and compassion.

Colorado House Rabbits Society:

This is a wonderful organization that takes in unwanted or abused domestic rabbits. If you have ever considered owning a pet rabbit, please call them first. The House Rabbit Society is a wonderful domestic rabbit education, adoption/boarding facility. The owner even carries 24-hour pager with her to deal with rabbit emergencies.

Contact: Nancy LaRoche

303-469-3240 (Answering Machine/General Information/Boarding)

720-350-6863 (Emergencies between 9:00 - 2:00 p.m.)

303-609-2929 (Emergencies any other time)

I do have additional names of people you can call so please call me if you are unable to reach anyone from the above list. I can be reached at 303-786-8569.

SEPTIC STORY

By Suzanne Adams

Ooohhh, we got the nicest compliment recently! We had called Acme Septic, Inc., for a routine pumping, and the serviceman said we had "excellent effluent." Now, there's a compliment worth having. If there is a problem with effluent and a system fails, the cost for replacement can range from $10,000 to $20,000. How do you know if your system has failed? Chances are, your nose will know. Or your neighbors' noses will. The Pine Brook Press had a call recently from a Pine Brooker who had sniffed the whiffs of septic seepage from a nearby property and was seeking a tactful way to inform the neighbors. Because seepage from a failed system can pose a significant public health threat, one technique for the modest would be to notify the County Health Department and let THEM tell the neighbors.

Want to avoid the cost of a ruined septic system? Here's how:

1. Have your tank pumped out every 2-4 years, depending on the size of the system, the number of people in the house and water usage. If tanks are not pumped out regularly, material tactfully referred to as "solids" will build up and eventually flow out of the tank and plug up your septic lines. If you use a garbage disposal you will need to have the tank pumped more frequently. Many people suggest avoiding the use of a garbage disposal altogether in our area.
2. Avoid burdening your tank with inappropriate materials like disposable diapers, etc. Reduce soap curd by wiping greasy dishes with paper before washing them. Minimize the use of chemicals such as drain solvents and bleach. They can injure the helpful bacteria which work on - well, effluent, by - well, eating it.
3. Fix leaky faucets promptly. Tracey at Acme Septic mentioned that many people don't realize that a leaking faucet or a sticky toilet (where you have to jiggle the handle to stop the flow of water) sends water to the system and can flood it. A soggy septic field means Trouble.
4. Don't let anyone drive a heavy vehicle over your septic field. Splat!

Replacing a septic system involves digging up a large area somewhere on your property, creating a new septic field and connecting it to a new tank. While the tank is being installed it is important not to send any water or whatever down on the installers. One Pine Brooker (who has requested anonymity) was having a new system installed recently. The PBer EVER so carefully got a glass of water without letting a DROP go down the drain but then, a few minutes later, used the facilities and - forgot. Fortunately the guys out back took it, and a compensatory bottle of wine, as a good joke.

Further fascinating tidbits on septic systems and their care are available from your septic company, the PBH Water Department, or The Pine Brook Press.

NEWCOMER NEWS

By Joyce Colson and Rob Quinn

Diane and Jason Nutter and son Rhett, 2039 Linden Drive. Diane and Jason moved to Boulder from New York City. Diane's office in NYC was adjacent to the World Trade Center and her subway stop was in the first tower. Because the subways were stopped, she did not get off at the usual stop and she managed to make her way back to their apartment safely. They are glad to be in Boulder! Jason works for a NYC software company and telecommutes to NYC. They both enjoy mountain biking and the outdoor opportunities in Colorado.

Tracy and Tim Heimann, and son Calvin (almost 2) 745 North Cedar Brook. Tim and Lacy migrated from the plains (28th and Jay road) to Pine Brook Hills. Tim works at GE Access. Tracy and Tim are both triathletes (Tim has done 4 and Tracy 1). Tracy is interested in meeting other families with young kids. Like the Nutters, they originally came from NYC.

The Fire Department Auxiliary Needs YOU! By Susan Maxwell

The members of the Auxiliary have a great deal of fun doing their job - supporting the Fire Department. We organize fundraisers (Garage Sale and Mountain Expressions), help with banquets and parties, buy needed equipment and occasionally even provide refreshments during fires. We serve a vital community function, and at the same time, make lasting friendships with our neighbors. If any of this sounds appealing, please come and join us. Call Nancy Tamura (303) 448-0225 for more information.

CHANGES PROPOSED FOR HOA BY-LAWS

At the last HOA board meeting the officers approved some minor changes to the 1993 by-laws. These changes will be voted on at the Association meeting in April. If you would like to review the by-laws before the meeting, copies are available at the Community Center.

LETTER TO THE EDITORS

Dear Editors:

My wife & I saw a severe infestation of mistletoe on a walk down Pine Brook Road and around Pine Brook Loop. On the way back up Linden to our home at 69 Wild Horse, we saw that the mistletoe had crossed the road 100 to 200 yards above the junction of Pine Brook and Linden.

Are people aware of this? I saw one house (on Linden) that has done some branch trimming. Other than that, it looks like no one knows or cares.

Worried,

Steve Mestdagh

Dear Steve,

We're worried too. Mistletoe may currently be a greater threat to our pine forest than pine beetles. But there is hope.

According to Dave Kalyan of Boulder Tree Service, if people will prune branches infested with mistletoe in a timely way, the parasite can be controlled. It isn't easy. It might take several years to free a tree from mistletoe. But every effort helps control damage to neighboring trees. For a homeowner unwilling to prune diseased trees, an alternate technique is to spray, which knocks the fruited structures to the ground where they cannot spread to other trees.

Some say that, after all, mistletoe is natural. So is small-pox.

The death of our pine forest would be a terrible loss. But the problem is not merely aesthetic. Dead trees make excellent fuel for wildfires.

We will have an opportunity to talk to a State Forester at the HOA meeting on April 24. We hope to see you there!

WHAT ARE YOU READING?

Compiled By Cindy Brooks

Bagombo Snuff Box*, by Kurt Vonnegut

Reviewed by Michael Black

Bagombo Snuff Box was published in 1999 but written in the 1950's. After declaring that his 1998 novel Timequake would be his final work, Vonnegut produced what many believe will be his last published work. Bagombo Snuff Box is a collection of twenty-four magazine short stories retrieved from archives, with rewritten endings to three of the stories.

If you lived through the 50's or care to learn about post World War II America, you will enjoy this collection. Vonnegut has stated that every story should "start as close to the end as possible" and "every sentence must do one of two things - reveal character or advance the action." In these stories he is true to form. In each story, almost immediately, you understand the characters and their role in the drama that is about to play out. While these stories are not nearly as complex as Vonnegut's novels, they do give you a view to his developing style. Vonnegut writes with energy, humor and perception, offering fascinating insights into the attitudes and preoccupations of Americans in the fifties. He writes about his experiences in World War II ("Der Arme Dolmetscher"), women's role in the 1950's ("Custom-Made Bride" and "Lovers Anonymous"), how rapid technological advances were changing everyday life ("The Package") and how small town America copes ("The No-Talent Kid" and "Any Reasonable Offer"). One theme continues to show up in many of the stories - pretense does not succeed. Vonnegut has no use for people who put on airs and they always fail ("Magic Lamp") or are exposed ("Bagombo Snuff Box").

This book will not consume you; you will not be compelled to read it in one sitting. But it will provide hours of entertainment over many days of intermittent reading. You will even grow to know and love some of the characters, especially the ingenious Lincoln High School Band Teacher, George M. Helmholtz, who entertains us more than once.

AN INTERVIEW WITH LYNNIE BARBER

By Brooke Kimball, age 12

What do kids do when they get home from school? Watch TV? WRONG! Not Linnie Barber! She gets out of school two hours early so she can practice skating at the Promenade in Westminster. She skates four hours a day, five days a week! She's been skating since she was seven years old and won her first award when she was eight! She says the best thing about skating is that she "gets to fly." Even though skating takes away a lot of her free time, the 14 year-old explains that she does all her homework in the car driving to practice. She even has a 4.0! In her spare time (when she has any), she likes to go to parties, go shopping, and hang out with friends, just like anybody else.

A Champ in the Making.....go get 'em Linnie!

In the directory, her name is seen as Gwendolyn, but she says she likes to be called Linnie.

Linnie takes coaching seriously. She has four coaches: a main coach, a choreographer coach, an artistic coach, and a jumping coach. Her worst experience skating was when one of her coaches left her to get married. Her role models are her former coach Teresa and her present coach, Lou Ann.

An exciting event in her career happened last October when she was ranked 5th in the state!

Linnie (top level) won another first place medal at the Denver Invitational Competition on March 16, 2002

Her ambition is to make it to Nationals. She would also like to be in the Olympics. She travels all over the country for competitions and other things concerning her career. It may seem like a terrific career (and it is!), but for all you junk-food addicts out there, maybe you should choose something else! Linnie says that she can't eat too much junk food and never can drink soda. Why is that? Soda takes oxygen out of your blood. (I didn't even know that!)

An awful experience of hers was when her leg was slashed by another skater's toe pick (it really hurt her). Plus, she gets hurt a lot when she falls. I asked her if her sacrifices for skating are worth it. She said yes, definitely! She loves to do it. She makes the sacrifice because she loves to skate and compete. What she gets out of it is this: a lot of determination, practice, discipline, and being able to have love for something. Nice! Nothing would persuade her to give it up, either. What dedication! Here is an example of a young girl, out there reaching her goals, making sacrifices, never giving up, dedicating her life to skating, and living life the way it's meant to be lived.
